IN MEMORIAM

In honor of our mother and wife, Mrs. Nannie Mae P. Jennings, who passed away two years ago April 25th.

Two years ago Mom, you went away
Our love for you & memory is just the same today
Your chair is vacant where once you sat,
And shared so many things we won't forget.
God keep you in his loving care
It'll be like home again when we all get there.

Sadly missed by your husband & children

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and daddy, Will B. Booker, who passed away 3 years ago, April 18, 1974.
Friends came in to comfort
Bought flowers by the score,
Did many things to comfort
Till they could do no more.
We shall start another
Long and lonesome mile
Thinking of you so often
Hungry to see you smile
We're trying to carry on,
As you would have us do
Hoping to have you clasp our hands
When our work on earth is through.

HEALTH WISE

Why is it that so many people feel dragged out, only half alive? Is this a normal state of affairs? Something we just have to learn to live with? Is the human body so poorly designed that we can't hope with the rigors of life?

To answer the last question, there is nothing wrong with the design of the human body. It's the most complex and exquisitely fashioned mechanism in the entire world. In fact, we have no right to take ourselves so much for granted.

An entire library of physiology books couldn't do justice to the intricacies of the human body, but let's just ponder a facet or two. First of all, whether you are a president, plummer, or poet, you started out as did everyone else, as a single cell. And that cell was so tiny as to be invisible to the naked eye, but by the time the doctor slapped your bottom, and you responded with a lusty squall, you could boast some 200 Billion cells.

And talk about gaining weight. During that same 9 months period you increased your weight by a phenominal 2 Billion times. One scientist has estimated that "if a person continued to grow after birth at the same rate the embryo grows inside the uterus, by the time the person was an adult he would be as big as the world."

But back down to your right size, lets look at another marvel. Let's bypass some of the more glamorous organs, such as the heart or brain, and consider something apparently uncomplicated - your skin. After all, this is the only wrapping for the human package. And we'll concentrate on only a very small portion at that; only one square centimeter on the back of your hand. That's a patch of skin about the size of your smallest fingernail.

Now stand by for a surprise. The more than 3 Million tiny cells that make up that little patch of skin are unbelievably specialized. Packed into that tiny area are: 1 yard of blood vessels to provide nourishment, 4 yards of nerves to carry messages, 10 hairs, 2 sensors to detect cold, 12 sensors to detect heat, 15 sebaceous glands to keep the skin supple, 25 pressure organs for sensing touch, 100 sweat glands to carry off impurities, 200 nerve endings to record pain.

I can almost hear someone saying, "Granted that my body is a complicated mechanism. But if it is so exquisitely designed, then how come it's out of whack so often?

Well, as with the car one drives, more often than not, there is nothing wrong with the engine, its that "nut" behind the steering wheel.

Of Interest To Veterans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following are representative questions answered daily by VA counselors. Full information is available at any VA office.

Q - I am an Army retiree and waived my retirement pay in lieu of VA disability compensation. May I have an allotment withheld from my compensation check to pay premiums for a commercial insurance policy?

A - No.

Q - If my son enters the Air Force Academy, will he receive government life insurance?

A - He will be covered under Servicemen's Group Life Insurance unless he elects to waive his coverage.

Q - If a veteran is entitled to a one time VA car grant is he entitled to adaptive equipment for vehicles he may subsequently purchase?

A - Yes.

Q - May a vetran concurrently receive VA compensation and pension?

A - No. He would automatically be paid the greater of these two benefits.

Q - What is the latest date that I can use my GI Bill entitlement?

A - The maximum delimiting date for education benefits for school attendance is 10 years from your date of separation from active duty, or Dec. 31, 1989, whichever is earlier.

Q - Are loans available through VA for personal reasons or the purchase of automobiles?

A - No. The VA guarantees loans for eligible veterans for the purchase of homes. For eligible GI Bill students, education loans may be obtained. These are the only loan programs available from the VA.

Q - Is there a limit on the amount of tutorial assistance available to veterans under the VA education benefits program?

A - An eligible veteran may receive up to $65 per month. The maximum payment is $780.

Q - I have been receiving care under the Civilian Health and Medical Programs of the VA (CHAMPVA), based on my husband's 100 per cent permanent and total service - connected disabilities. We are obtaining a divorce. When do my medical benefits terminate?

A - Your CHAMPVA eligibility ceases at midnight on the date the divorce becomes final.

Q - I was given a bad conduct discharge from the Army. I was later granted a Presidential pardon. Am I eligible for VA benefits.

A - A Presidential pardon does not change the character of a discharge, an administrative decision will have to be made. It is recommended that you file a claim for benefits. A transcript of the proceedings that resulted in your discharge will be obtained and a determination will be made. You should also apply for a review of your discharge by the Army Discharge Review Board.

Q - My 20-year-old daughter is receiving dependents educational assistance and she plans to marry soon. Will her education benefits be discontinued when she married?

A - If otherwise eligible, she may continue to receive the benefits.

Q - May a veteran reserve grave space in a national cemetery?

A - Any veteran whose separation from the service was for reasons other than dishonorable is eligible for burial in a national cemetery, but reservations are not accepted. Also, each veteran is entitled to only one gravesite. Other eligible family members must share the space with the deceased veteran.

DOES THE LEUKEMIA SOCIETY HAVE ANY CONNECTION WITH THE AMERICN CANCER SOCIETY?

No. The Leukemia Society of America, Inc. is a national health agency engaged in "the support of research, education, and patient aid programs concentrated upon the control and conquest of leukemia." The services provided by this organization are also provided by the ACS as part of its overall service program. In Virginia the Leukemia Society has its statewide Chapter office in Hampton.

VIRGINIA CANCER FACTS & FIGURES

Present rates indicate that one out of every four Virginians will have cancer in their lifetime.

In the coming year over 14,000 Virginians will develop cancer and 8,100 will die from this disease.

Two-of every three Virginia families will have a member affected by cancer.

Cancer will kill more children in Virginia in this year than any other disease.

It is estimated that the Commonwealth of Virginia will lose $300,000,000 in productivity this year as a result of cancer among its citizens.

There, are an estimated 19,929 cancer patients throughout the State. During the past year the American Cancer Society assisted 5,501 of them in some way.

WHAT ISN'T THE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY IN THE UNITED FUND?

The Society knows that the independent educational and fund-raising Cancer Crusade is the best means for assuring the public's broad support of its programs in public and professional education, service, and research. An independent Crusade also provided volunteers the opportunity to distribute life-saving information house-to-house and person-to-person.
